DAY TWO

June 24, 2012 | Sunday

St. Petersburg

Morning departure into the Russian countryside to see two of the city's most elegant and beautiful palaces- Catherine Palace (formerly Pushkin) and Pavlovsk, in the nearby village of the same name.

Your first stop will be Pavlovsk Palace, built by Paul I and his wife Maria. This is the understated summer palace of the tsars. Started by Catherine the Great's favorite architect, Cameron (a Scot), the palace was later finished by Paul's and his wife Maria's preferred architect, Andrei Voronykhin- a Russian serf who later became one of the greatest architects ever to work in Russia. (For those interested in Russian history, with a focus on architecture and design, you won't want to miss reading Suzanne Massie's Pavlovsk: the Life of a Russian Palace.)

You will have lunch today at the restaurant Podvorye. This charming restaurant is made of wood and features lively folk entertainment at lunch. Lunch consists of 2 courses, vodka, wine, mineral water, and coffee or tea.

Afterwards, you will visit the lavish Catherine Palace and its fabled Amber Room. This palace was originally designed in the 1750s in the Rococo style by the famous architect Rastrelli (who also designed many of St. Petersburg's grandest buildings like the Winter Palace, parts of Peterhof, the Stroganoff Palace, and the Smolny Cathedral) for the Tsarina (Princess) Elizabeth, who named it after her mother Catherine I – Peter the Great's second wife. Later, Catherine II (the Great) commissioned the Scottish architect Charles Cameron to re-design the palace's interiors in the then-fashionable Neo-Classical style. After Catherine the Great's death, the palace remained largely unchanged for centuries until the Second World War when the Nazi army, retreating after the unsuccessful siege of Leningrad, destroyed the palace almost completely. After the war, the magnificent palace and its interiors were thoroughly and painstakingly rebuilt, but renovations at some parts still continue.

DAY THREE

June 25, 2012 | Monday

St. Petersburg

Check out of your hotel this morning (your luggage will be transferred directly to the Silver Whisper) and meet your guide in the lobby at 10:00am.

Today you will be among the few ever to be allowed into the Hermitage and Winter Palace on a Monday, when it is closed to the public. You will be able to enjoy the collection without the usual summer crowds for a truly extraordinary experience.

The Hermitage museum is closed on Mondays and special arrangements have been made to open the museum especially for you for a private tour.

This afternoon lunch will be served in a local restaurant (two courses and unlimited mineral water, tea or coffee).

Later you will visit Peter Paul Fortress: the birthplace of St. Petersburg. After walking through the many gates and across the bridges and moats, you can begin to feel the late 18th century era that required such fortification. As Peter's original outpost against the Swedes, St. Petersburg was born from this fortress and its historical significance is felt to this day by the presence of every Romanov tomb from Peter the Great.

Finally today, your guide will take you into the stately St. Isaac's Cathedral. Its malachite and lapis lazuli columns are not to be missed! St. Isaac's was built between 1818 and 1858 by the French-born architect Auguste Montferrand to be one of the most impressive landmarks of the Russian Imperial capital. During World War II, the golden dome was painted gray to avoid its being targeted by Nazi fire. For those with strong legs, you can climb to the top of the Cathedral's dome for the finest views over St. Petersburg's historic neighborhood.

Late afternoon transfer to the Silver Whisper for embarkation. Evening onboard.

Hotel: Silver Whisper

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner (Silver Whisper)

DAY FOUR

June 26, 2012 | Tuesday
St. Petersburg

This morning your guide will meet you at 9:00AM to take you on another very unusual excursion- to Peter the Great's summer palace, Peterhof, on a day that it is closed to the general public. You will be among the few ever to enjoy this world famous palace without the usual summer crowds.

Peterhof Palace (or Petrodvorets in Russian) is often called the Russian Versailles due to the prominence of the gardens and fountains. The view from the palace through the grand colonnade of fountains to the Baltic Sea is one of the true masterpieces of Russian artistry. There are many parts to the palace complex and to view them all, you will need to devote most of the day.

When you walk through the upper gardens, you can enter the Grand Palace of Peterhof. This stately palace overlooks the gardens and smaller palaces, as well as the Baltic Sea. The ornate baroque interiors of the Grand Palace will no doubt amaze you and no one soon forgets the unique Chinese Room filled with lacquer and ancient silk.

Later you may want to visit the Grottos of Peterhof. The tremendous variety of fountains is one of the principal features of Peterhof, where their extravagance and playfulness indicate the atmosphere of early 18th century Russia. You will journey underneath the fountains and learn of their remarkable engineering and history.

As you move towards the lower gardens you will be able to see Peter the Great's favorite buildings. It is also in this area that you will see Peterhof's most enchanting treat - the trick fountains of the gardens. Be careful where you step in this area - you could be hit by a surprise stream of water as you stroll!

Lunch today is in the historic Orangery of Peterhof Palace opposite the famous Triton fountain. The grandfather of the modern greenhouse, this Orangery served as the palace's main garden center and was used as a freeze shelter for the garden's many orange, apple, and other fruit trees during the harsh St. Petersburg winters. Although the café located inside the historic building is not a fine dining restaurant, the buffet style restaurant offers hot soups, rolls, salads and other light cuisine. Cost of lunch today is included in the tour.

If the weather is nice, a special treat is to take the express hydrofoil from Peterhof back to the city. The one-hour ride takes you out of the city traffic and into the Baltic Sea! Your guide will go with you on the hydrofoil.

Return to your ship by 4:00PM for the 6:00PM departure for Helsinki.
